

NORTHUMBERLAND HEATH PRIMARY NEWSLETTER

Dear Parents/Carers,

Last week I wrote about the work the school is doing to focus on behaviour across the school; building knowledge, understanding and developing respect for each other across our community. This work will continue over the next couple of weeks and the upcoming summer term with more plans for workshops and opportunities for the children to benefit from as well as more parent workshops. We look forward to sharing more information soon.

This week we were visited by Mpula from The Arise Project as we build on our work to celebrate and respect diversity and support the school to work with children, families and staff in ensuring that any anti-racist behaviour and language is challenged. Children across KS1, LKS2 and UKS2 spent time together in three different assemblies and listened to Mpula talk about a wide range of issues. The children showed respect and asked some insightful questions during these sessions. This work follows our Personal Development focus on Respect at the end of last half term as well as weekly lessons and is also part of the journey the school is on to challenge behaviour and increase knowledge and understanding. Mpula will be coming back next week as the school recognises 'International day for the elimination of racial discrimination' to work with Y2 and Y5 as well as a parent workshop at the end of the day.

Today, as we celebrate Red Nose Day together, this further reinforces the notion of Respect and Kindness as we reflect on the reasons that the Comic Relief charity fundraises each year and the projects that benefit from funds that are raised. It was great to see everybody come in dressed 'red to toes' to recognise this day.

As a school we are keen to celebrate the many good things about the children and the school and aim to bring the community together to celebrate together. With that in mind, as we approach the Easter break we have put together some Easter competitions for the children to participate in. Take a look at the posters within the newsletter which shares some of the opportunities that will be taking place. We look forward to sharing the children's outcomes at the end of the term.

Also, this week, the school was visited by an external visitor, our school improvement partner (SIP) from Bexley. Our SIP was asked to focus on behaviour and conducted a behaviour learning walk whereby she randomly selected and spoke with some children across the school. She asked the children about behaviour and the children's responses were open and honest about what is working well and what needs to improve. Your children's views are important to us and we will continue to meet with children and talk to them about their school and what they would like to see happen to make things better. We look forward to sharing more about children's feedback in the weeks to come.

Some children explained how support plans work and told our visitor that their teachers are the biggest reason that their behaviour improves; 'because my teacher encourages me to do better'.

When asked about recognition; some of the children said -
There is a reward system for the whole class. We get points for showing respect. We have a Recognition board. You can choose which one you want it to go on. If you get 15 points, you get a reward. On Fridays, we have celebration assemblies where our teachers give out certificates for Star of the week. There are Headteacher awards and the Golden Book too.

There are lots of opportunities for parent/carers and our school to engage together next week - through parents evening, parent workshop and family learning opportunities - we hope to welcome you soon.

Many thanks for your support and understanding.
